Final Project

Concept

a recreation of my mid-term project but redesigned and restyled.

i want to create a fun and interactive website, that while it will serve as my personal website, has a lot of user interactivity. similarly to my website for the midterm, i would like it to host some of my personal portfolio works but also a place where i can share songs i like, or photos i took/ like, something like a website as my own personal pinterest board.

inspiration

final presentation

i saw a lot of websites that i liked and finally felt like i could do something similar or make something that mimics the style of them. i want it to feel uber modern but not boring, something that has a distinct style but is easy to use.
